Part One: Get Ready

TOOLS FOR A DEEPER DIVE

The Four Building Blocks of Change
Tessa Basford and Bill Schaninger, McKinsey Quarterly
This short article discusses how efforts to change mindsets and behaviors are more successful when they include four key actions: role model; foster understanding and conviction (the "why" of the change); reinforce changes through formal mechanisms; and develop talent and skills.

How to Make Collaboration Work: Powerful Ways to Build Consensus, Solve Problems, and Make Decisions
David Straus
This book describes the principles and practices of collaboration known as the Interaction Method, a foundation on which the Interaction Institute for Social Change has built additional tools focused on equity and inclusion, networks for social change and the power of love as a force for social change. Although the book doesn't speak directly to race, equity and inclusion, you'll find a lot of guidance on how to build the kind of collaborative culture and planning processes that will support your race, equity and inclusion work.
You can read the opening section here.

See also, Communications tools in Tools for a Deeper Dive in the Making the Case for Change section